School Closure Information Available Through Local Media Outlets

As winter weather arrives, Reynolds School District would like to remind parents and patrons about emergency closure procedures. All information about school closure, late start, and early release is released to local media outlets, including radio, television, website and newspapers. In most cases, the announcements will be made by school district, so parents and patrons should be listening for the “Reynolds School District” announcement. Reynolds School District closures effect Alder, Davis, Fairview, Glenfair, Hartley, Salish Ponds, Margaret Scott, Sweetbriar, Troutdale, Wilkes, and Woodland Elementary Schools; HB Lee, Reynolds, and Walt Morey Middle Schools; Reynolds High and Reynolds Learning Academy, and Natural Resources Learning Academy. Two local charter schools, Reynolds Arthur Academy and Multisensory Learning Academy are also covered by Reynolds School District closures.

The most common school closure is for inclement weather, so as winter weather (snow and ice) approaches, we advise families to review emergency plans and discuss them with your student. Please call the student’s school to update any emergency contact information, so you can be reached in a timely manner.
